SENIOR MANAGEMENT COMPENSATION

The Role of the Board of Trustees in Overseeing Senior Management Compensation

The full Board of Trustees establishes the terms of the President's employment and compensation. The Compensation Committee, a standing committee composed of independent members of the Board of Trustees, approves the compensation of the President's direct reports.

Trustees of the J. Paul Getty Trust receive no compensation for their service but are reimbursed for travel expenses incurred in fulfilling their duties as members of the Board. In addition, Trustees are eligible to participate in a matching gift program providing matching gift funds to eligible qualified public charities on a four-to-one basis up to an annual maximum matching amount of $60,000.

The J. Paul Getty Trust Senior Management Compensation Policy

The goal of the Getty's compensation process is to pay salaries that are competitive for comparable positions at organizations similar in activities and scope.

The performance and compensation of the President and Chief Executive Officer is reviewed and set by the Board of Trustees in executive sessions in the absence of the President and CEO. Compensation decisions regarding direct reports to the President are recommended by the President and CEO to the Compensation Committee for approval. Program Directors and Vice Presidents are eligible to participate in a matching gifts program providing matching gift funds to eligible qualified public charities on a four-to-one basis up to an annual maximum matching amount of $32,000.

The Compensation Committee reviews and compares compensation levels for the President and his direct reports with those reported for analogous positions at comparable organizations. The Compensation Committee relies on reports of Mercer, a nationally recognized, independent executive compensation consultant, setting forth the comparative information as to compensation at leading cultural organizations, private foundations, research and policy institutes, and universities.

The independent executive compensation consultant, with the approval of the Compensation Committee, selects similar positions among organizations of comparable scope, scale and purpose. In its last report, completed in April 2014, the consultant used data from two market sources: broad-based published surveys and information contained in the IRS Form 990s of a custom peer group. Organizations included in the peer group are set forth in the table below. Not all organizations in the custom peer group are used for each position.

Benefits

The following benefits apply to all employees: 1) reimbursement for all reasonable business-related travel, entertainment, and other expenses; 2) coverage under the Trust's standard benefit plans as in effect from time to time, including health, life and accident insurance programs, and sickness, disability and retirement plans; and, 3) annual payment to compensate for the ERISA limitation on compensation considered for benefit calculations.

Cash Compensation of Officers and Highest Paid Employees

The Getty annually files its Form 990-PF tax return which contains certain compensation disclosures. The Getty's most recent 990 may be found at <http://www.getty.edu/about/governance/finance.html>. This form is completed with advice from its tax accountants and outside tax counsel. Because the data in the 990 is for a prior fiscal year, the Getty has created the following Table 2 which provides information for the most recent calendar year.
