

The Getty Conservation Institute

A private, nonprofit institution that works internationally to advance conservation practice through research, education, applied fieldwork, and the dissemination of knowledge.

The Getty Conservation Institute (GCI) focuses on the creation and delivery of knowledge that contributes to the conservation of the world's cultural heritage.

With its multidisciplinary staff, the GCI develops innovative approaches and model conservation strategies for built heritage and collections, and serves as a trusted source of information and education for the cultural conservation community.
