
Getty COVID-19 Vaccine Verification and Tests

June 2021

As Getty moves to having more staff and others at its locations, we are implementing a vaccine verification program. All employees, interns, scholars, contractors, docents and volunteers, working at the Center, Villa or Annex, are asked to provide verification of being fully vaccinated. Verification will be done by showing a nurse your completed vaccination card.

Individuals who are not fully vaccinated or choose not to provide proof of the vaccine must continue to get weekly COVID-19 tests. Six-foot distancing and masks are currently required for everyone. However, should that be relaxed for those who are fully vaccinated, Getty will adapt as well.

Getty has contracted with Taskforce Labs to help obtain these verifications (the same partners who have been providing on site COVID-19 testing since September 2020).

WHEN

Beginning Tuesday, June 1, you may stop into the locations below, during the times noted on the schedule, to provide proof of vaccination or receive your COVID-19 test. Please note that pre-scheduling is no longer required and we ask for your patience if you encounter a line. Additional times will be shared for July.

WHERE

Vaccine verifications will be conducted at the same location as COVID-19 testing.

- Getty Center: Private Dining Room
- Getty Villa: meeting rooms VN113 and VN114
- Annex: in the Security “isolation tent”

HOW

Employees who have registered for a COVID-19 test at a Getty location may use the same QR code for purposes of vaccine verification. If you have not had a COVID-test before, or you lose your QR code, you will register online through Task Force labs at: <https://testing.taskforcelab.com/register/getty>

You will show the QR code to the nurse, who will then scan your Getty ID badge along with your completed vaccination card. They will then affix a unique small sticker to the back of your Getty ID badge.

You only have to register with Taskforce lab once, where you will be asked for your name, address, phone number, email address (to which they can send the QR code), whether you’re employed by Getty or one of our contractors or are a docents or volunteer, and the Getty site at which you work.

If you have to replace your Getty ID badge, you may provide the same QR code, along with your vaccination card, to the nurse again and obtain a replacement sticker.

Designated Human Resources personnel will have access to data regarding vaccine verifications.

COVID-19 TESTING

Individuals who are not fully vaccinated or choose not to provide proof of the vaccine must continue to get weekly COVID-19 tests. You do not need to have an appointment to receive a test, but you must be registered. We ask your patience if there are others ahead of you waiting to see a nurse.
